

Recent Publications

This book is a distillation of the most vivid memories, anecdotes, impressions, reflections, insights, opinions, etc that the author has derived from a lifetime of following cricket. It's global in reach, but does include a good deal of South African content. Names remembered from childhood like Graeme Pollock, Barry Richards and Mike Procter rub shoulders with more recent counterparts like AB de Villers, Jacques Kallis and Hashim Amla. The cricket scene of today is contrasted with the one described by the one and only Charles Fortune, who has a section to himself - typical of the author's unique approach to the game.

Bites of Cricket is available from Amazon and other outlets in the UK at a price of between 9 and 10 GBP (plus shipping). Alternatively, please contact Nick at 0834135050 (WhatsApp if possible) to arrange purchase and delivery of a copy for R350.

Nick Cowley is a member of LAHS and Historic Bathurst.

Words from the man who inspired the book

"A definitive book on Port Alfred and our magnificent sunshine coast was originally suggested to Jannie van de Vyver, Keith Wilmot and me by the chairman of LTA, the late Dr Zach de Beer at the sales launch party for the Marina at the Johannesburg Sun Hotel in July 1987.

This has been long in gestation but when I met David Hilton-Barber, owner of Footprint Press, based in Port Alfred, I commissioned him to write the history, developments, and attractions of the Sunshine Coast. He has now published this book which has my full approval as it will benefit the entire Sunshine Coast."
